DORFMARKE

Electronic music project of Marcus Dindorf from Frankfurt am Main

Deep Tech House - Deep Minimal - Microhouse - Tech House - Electronica - Leftfield-oriented club music

Artist Bio

Dorfmarke is the electronic music project of Marcus Dindorf from Frankfurt am Main, Germany. The sound moves between Deep Tech House, Deep Minimal, Microhouse, Tech House, Electronica, and leftfield-oriented club music: deep, reduced, and groove-oriented, with hypnotic rhythms, warm basslines, subtle synth motifs, atmospheric texture, and long-form development instead of obvious drop formulas.

Marcus has been connected to electronic music since his youth through DJing, synthesizers, sampling, MIDI sequencing, and home recording. The serious Dorfmarke phase began around 2009; first releases followed around 2013, alongside the development of dPole Records as his own digital boutique label.

The most intensive creative Dorfmarke period ran from roughly 2009 to the end of 2019. This EPK presents that background alongside current listening links, artist context, and selected contact paths.

Sound Profile

- Hypnotic grooves, warm basslines, subtle synth motifs, and atmospheric textures.
- Studio-focused production with Ableton Live experience from version 7 through version 12.
- Hybrid workflow using DAW-based production, drum machines, sequencers, samplers, synthesizers, and hardware-oriented approaches.
- Music for intimate dancefloors, concentrated club moments, and late headphone sessions.

Selected Remix And Release Contexts
